Things do not seem to be breaking right for the World Court, so far as the increase of its prestige in the United States is concerned. Just as certain international organizations were getting ready to make a drive to put Uncle Sam in the court, with the Root proviso, along came the decision putting thumbs down on the Austro-German customs union past. The proposed customs agreement, briefly was for an elimination of tariff barriers between Germany and Austria. France and Italy opposed the union, stating it meant the absorption of little Austria into the German republic. The Austrians and Germans denied this, claiming that thew were only seeking to carry out the suggestions of a prominent French stateman, that tariff barriers in Europe should be eliminated.

Be that as it may, along came the World Court and by a vote of 8 to 7, decided that the customs agreement was outlawed. There is nothing significant in this barring the fact that the change of one vote could have altered the fate of two European nations and perhaps of the entire continent. But there is a real significance, and that is in the line-up of the judges in the vote. The Latin bloc, including France, Italy and Poland, a staunch French ally, lined up together, while Germany, of course, and six other nations were on the other side. It becomes immediately evident, in examining the returns that many of the judges voted along political and national lines rather than along lines of abstract justice.

Even the New York Times, which strongly advocates the adherence of the United States to the World Court, says: "It must be admitted, however, that this almost equal division of the World Court does not heighten its prestige. Apparently political questions, although the World Court specifically renounces any right or intention to deal with them, got mixed up with the legal questions. Some of the judges seem to have given as much weight to public consequences as they did to legal argument.

"Then there was the significant grouping of judges, on the one side or the other, strongly suggesting a national interest behind the decision of at least a few of the judges. All this has, in fairness, to be recognized as a somewhat disquieting feature in the handling of this difficult case."

The pro-league Baltimore Sun says that "this sort of thing is not in accord with our ideas of judicial impartiality" while the New York World-Telegram, of the Scripps-Howard chain, pro-court and internationalist, says almost apologetically: "It looks to us as if political considerations may have influenced some of the judges. That is unfortunate. But no sane supporter of the court has ever argued that it is perfect." The New York Evening Post regards the decision as unfortunate and the Philadelphia Public Ledger bluntly says: "The eight to seven decision in this case was thoroughly unsatisfactory. It bore what are widely regarded as unmistakable traces of French political maneuvering and the prestige of the court will suffer from it."

Those newspapers which are opposed to American participation in European political affairs are of course critical of the decision. the criticisms ranging from bitter denunciation to irony. The Washington Herald declares: "What does count is that the deciding vote unmasked the court itself. The supposedly august tribunal stands revealed as the tool of world politics—not by any means an ideal instrument of 'international justice,' which its delusive name implies. For in this first great test of its sincerety, as the New York Times correspondent remarks, 'the judges lined up according to the political sympathy of their countries. They were not governed by the legal aspects of the case.' What then would happen to the United Ttates in any international dispute, were this nation to be involved in the League of Nations?"

That is a question a great many Americans are asking as they read of this "unfortunate decision"—so-called by the friends of the court. And it is a question which will be asked in the United States Senate a great many times during the coming winter.

CONSOLIDATED BID TO ALL DAY MEET A T PLEASANTON

Mrs. James R. Whipple of Niles, Alameda County, who has worked with the Consolidated since she first "dreamed" the Naval Air Base at Sunnyvale, has invited the Consolidated to attend a luncheon meeting she is preparing at the Castlewood Country Club, near Pleasenton, Tuesday, Oct. 6.

This beautiful place is a former home of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and is one of the show places of California. Ample accomodations are provided for golf, tennis, etc., and a magnificent pool makes it almost impossible to deny oneself the pleasure of swimming. The Consolidated representatives are invited to come with their wives and make a day of it. The Campbell Chamber of Commerce is a member of the Santa Clara County Consolidated and every member of the locel chamber is cordially invied to this meeting.

Woman's Club Opens Season Monday With Old Time Program

Past presidents of the Country Woman's club were in charge of the meeting Monday which was a reception to members and their guests. In keeping with their titles the committee had arranged a program of old time music and other numbers, and they, with those who furnished the entertainment, wore costumes of '49 or later, which aroused much interest and amusement.

Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw "set the stage" for the program by reading James Whitcomb Riley's "Grigsby Station" to which she had added a stanza calling to mind a number of the old settlers of "Campbell Station."

Miss Catherine Wood, whose music is always a welcome addition to any program, played two selections, "Invitation to the Dance," Weber, and "Minuet," Paderewski.

A group of vocal solos were pleasingly sung by Mrs. Worthin Grattan and Mrs. Donald Page, (a) "When Twilight Weaves," Beethoven, (b) Polly Wolly Doodle, (c) "Long, Long Ago," with Miss Wood accompanist. Mrs. Freeman Howes, another interesting group, "Sweet Genevieve," "Bonnie Eloise" and "Paddle Your Own Canoe," with Mrs. L. J. Carboni at the piano.

Emily and Lois Bohnett, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bohnett, further carried out the theme of the day by singing "The Second Minuet" by Beethoven, following it with the dance for which the "Minuet in G" by the same composer was used. Mrs. F. V. Perrott played for both numbers.

A very happy feature of the entertainment was given by Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, who read from a book of reminiscences written by her grandfather, Chas. C. Brady in his 86th year. They were incidents of his boyhood in Hannibal, Mo., in which he mentioned Sam Clemens, and many characters which he made famous in "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn."

She also read an account of his early experiences in California from '49-'51, which clearly depicted the hardship of those early years.

Later dainty cookies, ice cream and candies were served.

Mrs. Ellen R. Smith reported the gift of two volumes to the library, note of which is made in another column.

On Oct. 19 the program will be on the beauties of Canada and Mrs. Mary Lanphear announced that thru Mr. Hapgood of the S. P. offices in San Jose, the Canadian Northern railway will send a representative who will show moving pictures of scenery, and explain them. A large attendance is urged and friends are cordially invited

HIGH MEN TO RACE FOR POINTS AT S. J. SPEEDWAY OCT. 4

The next auto racing at the San Jose speedway, on Oct. 4, will be a battle for championship points. With the 1931 season rapidly drawing to a close and with four drivers, Ernie Triplett, Chet Gardner, Stubby Stubblefield, and Francis Quinn, closely bunched in order named for this year's Pacific Coast title, every point gained in the 7-events here will play an important role in the final tally, it was revealed today.

Triplett, of course, is out in the breeze, but Gardner has been steadily cutting down his lead while Stubblefield and Quinn also have been making inroads on the leader's favorite stamping grounds. Ernie realizes he's in a tough "spot" and at present he is working on a new motor which he expects to have in his car for October 4 meet here.

Lincoln Cartoons Are Gift to Local Library

The Campbell Library association was the recipient of a gift of two volumes, presented to the library by Nicholas Inman.

These books are a very fine compilation of cartoons of Abraham Lincoln by Albert Shaw and will continue to increase in value with the passage of years.

Such gifts are greatly appreciated by all interested in the care and development of the library and by its many patrons.

Mrs. David Craig of Conrad, Mont., passed away Sunday evening after several months of suffering following a paralytic stroke. Mrs. Craig, a sister of E. C. Merrill, lived here for some time with her parents, and was well known to many here.

MAHATMA GANDHI, clad only in his loin cloth and a white robe, and constantly sipping goat's milk from a vacuum bottle, was the outstanding figure in the round-table conference on the status of India which got under way in St. James' palace in London. On the opening day he spoke no word, because it was his weekly day of silence, but in the evening, his period of silence having ended, he made this rather pessimistic statement:

Gandhi

"If our hopes and fears are weighed in the balance, I am afraid our fears will far outweigh our hopes. But it is too early to make predictions. We ought to be able to say a week hence whether our hopes ultimately will overbalance our fears. At present everything is in the lap of the gods."

He had listened to flowery and hopeful speeches by Lord Sankey, chairman of the federal structures committee, and several others, including Indian potentates, but he seemed bored and unimpressed.

Next day, however, the mahatma was free to speak, and speak he did, letting the British know that the minimum demand he, as authorized by the All-India nationalist congress, is empowered to make is undiluted self-government for India. He wanted the British to let him know very soon whether this would be granted, and was willing to let other minds work out the details. But if the answer was to be "No," he wished to return speedily to India and resume there his revolutionary movement. The queer looking little Hindu leader did not say this quite so bluntly as it is written, but there was no mistaking his meaning, for he is always unafraid to speak frankly.

India, he said, was willing to remain a partner in the British empire, but that partnership must be such that it may be terminated at the will of either party.

"If God wills," he said, "it will be a permanent partnership, but at the same time, the right to terminate the associtaion will constitute a real test of the equality of position enjoyed by both partners.

"There was a time when I was proud of being called a British subject, but many years ago I stopped calling myself a British subject. I would far rather be called a rebel than a subject, but I still aspire to be a citizen, not of an empire, but of a commonwealth in partnership.

"Not a partnership superimposed by one nation upon another, but a partnership of mutual agreement. In such a partnership India will be ready to share Great Britain's misfortunes, and if necessary, to fight side by side with Great Britain, not for exploitation of any race or any person, but conceivably for the good of the whole world."

The dominance of the conservatives in both the present cabinet and the house of commons makes it likely that the opposition to India's demands will be stronger than when the round table first met last winter. The Tories have reiterated their position against those demands. It seemed certain that the debate would be long drawn out and probably at times acrimonious.

The federal structures committee, ignoring Gandhi's desire to have a decision on the general question of self rule first, went ahead with the working out of details.

BANKERS, economists, ex-service men and many other groups are holding almost daily conferences to see what can be done about unemployment and the recovery of prosperity. One of the important sessions was that of the American Legion labor conference in Washington, and in it the chief address was made by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, now president of the Radio Corporation of America. He told the legion that the surest contribution it could make toward the solution of the problem would be to offer its services unreservedly to President Hoover, and continuing, he had some harsh words for those who advocate the demanding of full payment of soldier bonuses.

Gen. Harbord

"I can't imagine anything more ridiculous," he declared, "than your going to your Detroit convention with a program to relieve the country's unemployment and depression problems in one hand and a tin cup in the other. You would be laughed out of the country."

The prohibition issue was brought to the fore by M. H. McDonough, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, who told the conference that legislation of beer would do more to relieve unemployment than all other relief measures combined. He said this would afford, within six months, employment for more than 1,000,000 persons, besides providing a market for farm produce.

AVIATION news was a mixture of good and bad. Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, who started a flight from Tokyo across the Pacific and were missing for nine days, were found alive and safe on an island off the coast of Kamchatka. Three passengers and a pilot died when a plane fell into the sea at Oakland, Calif.; and a navy plane carrying supplies to stricken Belize crashed, killing an officer and two enlisted men. Wreckage of a monoplane found near the Shetland islands was identified as the plane in which Parker Cramer and Oliver Pacquette were trying to fly to Copenhagen. At this writing there is no word of the fate of Rody, Johanssen and Viega who, flying from Portugal to New York, vanished off the Nova Scotia coast.

IF DISTRESS during the coming winter can be relieved through the appointment and the labor of leading citizens on committees, it certainly will be relieved. Director Gifford has just named a large committee of distinguished men and women whose duty it will be to mobilize national associations for the task. The chairman of this body is Dr. Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, who used to be an assistant secretary of the treasury and who is known for his excellent public service in connection with the Red Cross. He already is busy at the headquarters in Washington.

Doctor Wadsworth

Doctor Wadsworth's fellow members include: William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; Matthew Sloan, president of the New York Edison company; Silas H. Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Col. Arthur Woods of New York, who was chairman of Mr. Hoover's relief organization last year, and R. H. Aishton, Washington; Martin H. Carmody, Grand Rapids, Mich.; James C. Drain, Spokane, Wash.; Dr. John W. Davis, Institute, W. Va.; John E. Edgerton, Lebanon, Tenn.; Dr. Lillian Gilbreath, Montclair, N. J.; C. E. Grunsky, San Francisco, Calif.; A. Johnson, Washington; Alvan Macauley, Detroit, Mich.; John R. Mott, New York city; Rabbi A. H. Silver, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. John F. Sippel, Washington; George Sloan, New York city; Mrs. Robert E. Speer, New York city; L. J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio; George E. SCARCELY 2,000 members of the once mighty Grand Army of the Republic were able to attend the annual encampment in Des Moines, the sixty-fifth and perhaps the last. They were tenderly cared for and many of them managed to march over at least a part of the route when the big parade was held, but in the main they were content to sit in arm chairs and exchange reminiscences.

"Why
My Next Car
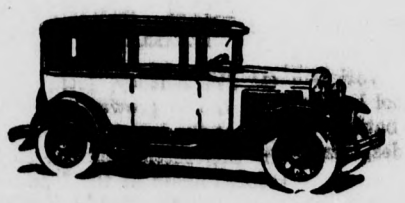
will be
A FORD"



WHEN you buy a Ford there are two things you never have to worry about. One is reliability. The other is long life.

Here's an interesting letter from a Ford owner in North Carolina:

"My Ford was purchased May 8, 1928, and has been run 121,767 miles. It has never stopped on the road for repairs of any kind whatsoever except punctures.

"The brakes were relined at 101,000 miles. My gas mileage averaged 21 miles to the gallon, and on tires, 19,000 miles per tire. I travel over all kinds of road conditions—mountainous and flat.

"I consider this a wonderful record and I assure you my next car will also be a Ford."

This is just one of many tributes to the reliability and long life of the Ford. A Ford owner in Iowa tells of driving his Ford 73,000 miles in a single year. Another writes of 120,000 miles of good service.

Think ahead when you are considering the purchase of an automobile and consider what it will be like after thousands of miles of driving. Will you still be satisfied? Will you still say "it's a great car"?

If it's a Ford, you know everything will be O. K. It will be taking you there and back in good style, just as it has always done. And you will have saved many important, worth-while dollars in cost of operation and up-keep and low yearly depreciation.

KIWANIS NOTES
By Heck

Rev. N. E. Moats of San Francisco gave a forceful talk to Kiwanians today on "don't be tired tomorrow." He urged a readjustment of one's self or a cooperative arrangement with relations to others to give peace.

Relaxation or greater incentive will give needed rest but that tired feeling disap pears when labor for self is changed to labor for others or a great cause. Kiwanian objectives, when striven for, create new energy for carrying on in the unselfish program.

Religion has proven a great boon to many as a relief from the stress of life.

Tuesday evening will be ladies night ,the last of the summer season, and plans are afoot to make it an interesting and enjoyable affair.

Capt. Delbert Brunton of Mountain View will speak on "Communism." Roy Archibald will be chairman.

Monday night a special reception was held for Lillian Ohlen, district deputy president, of Campbell Ada Rebekah lodge and her staff of officers, at the Stella lodge in San Jose, when Mrs. Ohlen made her official visit. A banquet was part of the program.

The Campbell ball team again defeated the Y. M. I. team, the score being 6-5. Next Sunday Campbell will play the Santa Clara Merchants.

CAMPBELL SCENE OF MINISTERS' ANNUAL RETREAT

The San Francisco District Retreat is being held in Campbell today and tomorrow. About 50 ministers of this district are present at the meetings which are being held at the local Methodist church.

The theme for the two days is "Lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes." The leader of the services Tuesday mornng was Dr. E. A. Lowther, and in the afternoon, Dr. John Stephens. In the evening Leonard Willis favored with a solo followed by the introductory address given by Bishop Chas. Wesley Burns.

Leaders for Wednesday are Dr. C. B. Sylvester and Dr. H. E. Milnes. Rev. Buell of the Campbell church has worked diligently to make this a successful meeting.

Annette Merrill Hostess at Bridge Tea

Miss Annette Merrill entertained a number of her friends at a bridge tea at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Merrill, Thursday afternoon.

The decorations were very attractive pastel shades of pink, blue and yellow. The tables on which tea was served were also daintily decorated in the same colors.

Miss Ebba Swanson was winner for the afternoon, holding high score. Others present at the pleasant gathering were Miriam Blaine, Ruth Bollinger, Helen Buck, Muriel Crothers, Eulah Hook, Ruth Newton, Lois and Clara Rice, Elin Swanson and the hostess.

Revival Meetings Held Over for One Week

The revival meetings which have been in progress the past two weeks at the Campbell theater, under the auspices of John 3:16 Mission, will continue another week, closing Sunday evening, the 27th of Sept.

Rev. Gertrude Knight, the evangelist, will give special illustrated sermons this week. The illustrations will be flashed on the screen from slides made for this purpose. This is something out of the ordinary, according to John Gamo, leader in the local mission, and he urges everyone in Campbell to make an effort to attend on Thursday evening. The evangelist will talk on India, with slides to picture each thought.

Miss Amy Shultz, the musician and singer of the party, will offer several illustrated songs. These services are free to all.

High P. T. A. In First Meet Of the Year

A supper was enjoyed by members and friends of the Hi P. T. A. at the high school building Monday evening. Colonel Mixer of Los Gatos, gave a vivid picture of the moving, by the Red Cross, of from 2,000 to 5,000 refugees a day out of Paris during the war .He told of the first Christmas prepared for the children after the Armistice, when 20,000 children received candy, toys and clothing. He also spoke of the rehabilitation of destroyed areas after the war.

Mrs. Robert Lear was elected vice president to take the place of Mrs. Johnson. The following chairmen were appointed to head committees: program, Mrs. Raw; hospitality, Mrs. Eva Bachman; membership, Mrs. Lloyd Shank.

D. H. Cramer announced the various adult classes which will start the first of October.

It was decided to give a card party to raise funds for student aid, as a big demand for help is already indicated. The party date was tentatively set for Friday, Oct. 9.

. . . isn't it because the people who buy tires, rather than those who sell them, definitely have settled the question as to whose tires are the best values?

Small cars, big cars—they all wear more Goodyear Tires than any other kind. The measure of value in a product may accurately be gauged by its volume of sales. You owe it to yourself to know the reasons why Goodyear Tires lead all others so greatly. We can show you!

Masons old Past Masters' Night Monday

The annual past-masters' night of Charity Lodge, 362, F. & A. M. was held last evening with a record attendance.

Features of the evening were the two tenor solos, "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "The Builder" sung by that popular radio artist and instructor, Mr Easton Kent and the inspiring talk by Attorney D. T. Jenkins.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Abe Gerbrandt, Sept. 16, a son.

Guild Has Enjoyable "Shawl Tea" Party

The summer division of the Congregational church Guild entertained 50 members of at a Shawl Tea and party at the church Thursday afternoon.

Every guest brought a shawl of some kind and displayed by the person who brought them, with interesting stories being told of them. Many lovely Paisley shawls of great value were shown, some of them being over 90 years old. Others were more modern but beautiful.

The two rooms of the church were very attractively decorated with wisteria vines, red pepper branches, gladiolis, zinnias, asters, marigolds and purple daisies. Patchwork quilts were hung on the wall for display.

Following the display of shawls a spelling match was held. Sides were chosen and the words were given by Mrs. Ray Wood and the contestants had to spell them backwards. For the seating arrangement, a proverb contest was held, each group making up a complete proverb.

A delightful musical program was also a feature of the day. Miss Miriam Blaine played two sleections on the piano; also Miss Kathryn Wood, and several vocal solos by Mrs. Donald Page were enjoyed.

Mrs. Andrew Skov of Pacific Grove is visiting Josephine LaBarbera for a few days.

Horace Lea and son, Lealand, returned today from a hunting trip to Modoc. A nice deer fell to Lealand's rifle.

Telephone Service

"A few months prior to having it (the telephone) installed, I disposed of seven feeder steers at five cents per pound, only to learn a few days later, that a friend tried to call me to say he had a buyer . . . . at six cents per pound. On that one deal alone, I lost $58.30, because I hadn't a telephone."
